

Support for Database Triggers

Perforce does not support the use of triggers for any product that stores data in an RDBMS database.

Database triggers may cause database issues and crashes, specifically when a trigger updates a table that no longer exists or tries to update data in another table within the database.

Perforce support contracts do not cover support for recovering from issues caused by the use of database triggers.

Article ID: 454

Last updated: 02 Jun, 2017

Revision: 4

Helix ALM (formerly TestTrack) -> Support for Database Triggers

<http://www.seapine.com/knowledgebase/index.php?View=entry&EntryID=454>